Death Removes Important Witness In Thaw Case.

Macara of Opinion That Desired Results Will Prevail.

TESTIMONY OF VALUE

It Is Alleged Valet Had Said That White Had Not Called Upon Wife of Defendant and No Notes Passed.

BETTER MARKETING.

If This Should Be Accomplished It Is Believed That Americans Can Save at Least Five Million Dollars Annually.

New York, July 3.—That there is no prospect of a speedy trial for Harry Kendall Thaw was announced by District Attorney Jerome, who returned to town for two days to devote his personal attention to the case. Owing to the fact that during the summer there are only two parts of the courts of general sessions in session, and that the trial would probably last two or three weeks, the district attorney decided not to advance the Thaw case on the calendar. Thaw will hardly be arraigned before October.

The death of Thaw's valet, William Bedford, in the Presbyterian hospital from complications from an operation for appendicitis, removed an important witness from the case. As it is, Assistant Attorney Garvin gave out the substance of the last statement made to him by the valet. Mr. Garvin said he stated that Thaw was not addicted to any drug. Bedford declared that he had seen no notes passed, it is alleged. The Thaws, he said, never quarreled.

As to the revolver, the valet supplemented his previous statement that Thaw had carried a revolver for three or four months by stating that Thaw had carried a weapon for about two years. In connection with the European trip of Thaw and Mrs. Nesbit, he said that he had accompanied Thaw, and that Thaw and Miss Nesbit had occupied adjoining rooms. The only marriage he had heard of, he said, was the one that had taken place at Pittsburgh. Mr. White, he said, had never called upon Mrs. Thaw to his knowledge.

Mr. Garvin examined Monday P. L. Bergoff, a private detective, who was for many months employed with three assistants by Mr. White to guard him and keep watch on a corps of detectives employed by Thaw. Three detectives employed by Thaw to watch White for about six months were also examined. They were W. W. Roorre, William McDonald and Harry Raleigh. They, according to the assistant district attorney, had been instructed by Thaw to follow White to a steamship pier and to engage men to pick quarrels with him at the pier in order to annoy the architect.

Allen W. Everts, counsel for the White family, called at the district attorney's office in connection with the murder.

FINANCIAL SHOWING.

Receipts and Expenditures and Bank Note Circulation.

Washington, July 3.—At the close of business June 30, 1906, the total circulation of national bank notes, as indicated by a statement issued by the comptroller of the currency, was $561,112,360, an increase for the year of $65,392,554, and an increase for the month of $1,982,700. The amount of circulation based on United States bonds was $517,847,749, an increase for the year of $55,178,335, and an increase for the month of $1,811,603. A surplus of $20,024,772 is shown by the comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures for the month of June, 1906, as compared with June of last year, and a surplus of $26,187,150 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906.

During June the total receipts of the government were $55,367,081. The total expenditures, $35,342,309.

LAWS REVOKED.

It is Now Possible for Jews to Locate in Palestine.

Toronto, July 3.—At the opening of the seventh annual convention of the Federation of Zionist Societies in Canada here President Desola of Montreal announced that the sultan of Turkey had revoked laws forbidding Jews to settle in Palestine. He did not wish it understood they had received a charter, but it is now possible for Jews to inhabit the country and enjoy the protection of its laws. He predicted the sultan's action would give great impetus to emigration from Russia.

BOTH ENGINES SMASHED.

Firemen Killed and One Engineer and Two Brakemen Injured.

Mobile, July 3.—A regular and extra freight train on the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City railroad collided head-on about two miles south of Newton, Miss., smashing both engines and killing the two firemen, Dan Ford, negro, and George Sanders, white. Engineer Boyd of the regular freight was slightly injured, and brakemen Haynie and Jones slightly injured.

The cause of the collision is said to be the overrunning of the meeting point by the extra freight.

London, July 3.—Charles Wright Macara, chairman of the committee of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' association, who has just returned here from the Cotton Spinners' congress at Bremen, thinks the international organization is within measurable distance of obtaining its main objects—namely: Steady prices, checking professional gambling operations, appointment of committee to investigate rules of cotton exchanges and finally improvement of ginning, baling, transportation and marketing of cotton. He considers the decision to improve marketing, etc., of cotton to be the most important step taken by the Bremen congress. He estimates $5,000,000 will be annually saved in these items in American cotton alone, and believes the strong financial position of American growers, enabling them to hold cotton, will have an important influence in steady prices.

While Mr. Macara considers the desired minimum price, 10 cents, to be exceedingly profitable, he thinks users will not grumble at it. Finally Mr. Macara attaches great importance to the promise of uses of cotton that America is prepared to cooperate with European spinners.

CHOLERA AT MANILA.

Virulent Type Prevails There and in Surrounding Provinces.

Manila, July 3.—Cholera of a virulent type has broken out among the natives at Manila and in surrounding provinces. Four Americans in Manila have been stricken to date, and there has been one death of an American—that of Charles Sheehan. Twenty-one cases and sixteen deaths have been reported Tuesday. Provinces report twenty-six cases and twenty-five deaths. The disease is of the most deadly type. Suburbs near Fort McKinley have been quarantined. There has been one death from cholera among soldiers—that of Cook Christian G. Dwight of Company C. Sixteenth infantry. The health bureau is taking every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease. A circular has been distributed among the citizens warning them of the danger and requiring that precautions be taken.

While the situation is serious, health officers do not look for an epidemic of great proportions. The greatest difficulty is experienced in getting natives to report cases of sickness.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

Fourth Accident of the Kind Within the Past Six Months.

Bluefields, W. Va., July 3.—News reached here that by a premature explosion in the mine at Keystone, W. Va., three men were killed outright and a number are still missing. Bud Meadows, Ed Howard and Will Mahon were passing through an alley, which had been abandoned for some time, when gas ignited from lamps and all three were killed. A number of men in other parts of the mine were injured, several fatally. The force of the explosion was terrific. Several parties formed for the rescue of the few miners imprisoned were overcome by gas. This is the fourth explosion during the year within the Pocahontas fields.

AGAIN CONVICTED.

For the Second Time Speyer Is Given the Death Penalty.

Kansas City, July 3.—A jury in the criminal court here for the second time rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree against John Martin Speyer, a circus performer, formerly of New Orleans, who killed his little son here four years ago. Speyer cut the boy's throat while a mob was trying to reach him for the alleged assault of a young girl. He was convicted at the first trial, but was given a rehearing.

SERGEANTS SLAIN.

Terrorists Add Two More Names to Long List of Dead.

Warsaw, July 3.—The Terrorists' determination to exterminate police force shows no signs of wavering. Before noon Tuesday two more police sergeants were added to the already long death roll. Both men were shot and killed in the streets, and in each case the assassins escaped.

LEGAL BATTLE BEGINS.

Toledo, O., July 3.—In the probate court of Hancock county was begun Monday the fight against the Manhattan Oil company and the Buckeye Pipe Line company, purchasing the pipe line companies of the Standard Oil company.

THAW'S MOTHER TOLD.

Informed Upon Arrival at London That Her Son Killed White.

London, July 3.—On her arrival at London Mrs. Thaw was driven to the residence of the Earl of Yarmouth, where the news of the tragedy at New York June 25 was broken to her. She bore up splendidly under the blow, but has not decided upon her future movements. Countess of Yarmouth is her daughter.

Mrs. Thaw arrived at Tilbury Tuesday morning on the steamer Minneapolis. Extraordinary precautions were taken on board to keep any inkling of the tragedy from her until relatives were able to break the news. Mrs. Thaw, who had been unusually cheerful throughout the voyage, was met by her son-in-law, the Earl of Yarmouth, and Blair Thaw, who went to Tilbury to welcome her, and her face was wreathed with smiles when she landed. As she stepped ashore Mrs. Thaw was surrounded by friends and detectives, the latter preventing any stranger from approaching her. After landing Mrs. Thaw and party boarded a special train, from which reporters were excluded.

NOT A STRANGER.

Cortez Long Years Ago Served as Secretary of the Legation.

Washington, July 3.—Enrique Cortez, who has been named Colombian minister to the United States, is no stranger to Washington. In the seventies he served as secretary of the Colombian legation in this city, and last year he was sent to this country as a special representative of President Reyes. He is a banker and has banks both at London and Bogota. At present he is in England.

At the beginning of the Reyes administration he served for short time as minister for foreign affairs, but was compelled give up his cabinet position to look after his business interests in Great Britain. Mr. Cortez was a member of the Colombian senate at the time of failure to ratify the Hay-Herran treaty and predicted dire consequences as a result of failure to do so. This made Mr. Cortez very unpopular for a time, but his countrymen soon realized he was right.

MIKADO PLEASED.

Sends Cartoonist Mayer Pair of Vases to Show Appreciation.

New York, July 3.—A London dispatch to the Times says that last November Henry Mayer, the cartoonist, forwarded to Tokio as a gift to the mikado the originals of his drawings on the Russo-Japanese war, which had appeared in the Times. He has just received word that the mikado has accepted the gift, and as a return courtesy has sent him a pair of Japanese cloisonné vases with the Imperial crest thereon. Mayer is asked to accept the vases as a token of the mikado's appreciation of his pictorial sentiments.

BEATEN AND SHOT.

Negro Caught in Room of a Young Lady at Dallas.

Dallas, July 3.—About 2:30 o'clock Tuesday morning a negro was discovered by a young lady guest of Hotel Cliff in her bedroom. She gave the alarm and several men came to her relief. The negro was beaten. He escaped. An officer fired twice at the fugitive. Some hours afterward the negro was found in a barn. He had been shot in a leg. He was placed in jail. A charge of burglary was preferred against the negro. He is twenty years old.

INCREASED WAGES.

Upwards of Thirty Thousand Cotton Mill Operatives Get More Pay.

Boston, July 3.—Upwards of 30,000 cotton mill operatives in New England are working now under an increase in wages, which places them on a schedule like that which prevailed prior to July 1, 1905, when a general reduction of 12 1/2 per cent was imposed.

CHURCH CONSUMED.

Tall Tower Crushes Houses and Four Workmen Killed.

Hamburg, July 3.—The great Church of St. Michael, with tower and spire 426 feet high, were totally destroyed by fire Tuesday. The tower in falling crushed several neighboring houses, and they caught fire. Four workmen, who were repairing the church, were killed.

TRAIN DEMOLISHED.

Despite Its Speed There Was Not a Person Killed or Injured.

Ballston, N. Y., July 3.—The Saratoga limited, on the Delaware and Hudson railway, the finest and fastest passenger train running between Saratoga and New York, was wrecked at this village early Tuesday. Although the train was completely demolished not a passenger was killed or injured.

Hearing Date Set.

Austin, July 3.—The railroad commission has issued notice of a hearing for August 21 to take up and consider readjustment of rates applying on palm-shaped clay furnaces less than carloads.

Overdose of Drugs.

Memphis, July 3.—John Garnett of Pulaski, Tenn., was found dead in his bed at a local hotel. The county physician stated that his death was the result of an overdose of drugs.

SCORE BLOWN DOWN.

DRWNS IN RIVER.

W. Gill Shaw Loses His Life In Waters of the Colorado.

Austin, July 3.—W. Gill Shaw, a student of the University of Texas, was drowned in the Colorado river Monday evening.

The death of young Shaw, who was twenty-four years of age, was quite tragic. He and a party of fifteen or twenty young ladies and young men, comprising many of those attending the university summer school, went out to the dam site to spend the day. They were all in bathing, and Shaw and Miss Lima Glessner of Temple became separated from the party and suddenly got into a deep portion of the river. Shaw saw the danger and devoted his attention to the young lady, who could not swim, and became exhausted. Their cries brought a young man in the party to them, and he took the young lady and swam ashore, thinking Shaw could take care of himself. Instead Shaw sank and never rose again. Shaw was assistant registrar of the university and a nephew of Hon. Gus Shaw of Red River county. Young Shaw would have graduated next year from the law department.

JAMES SURRENDERS.

Reason He Gave Up Was He Could Not Get Sufficient Food.

Waxahachie, Tex., July 3.—Being unable to secure a sufficient quantity of food to appease the pangs of hunger, Freeman James, a negro, who last Thursday night shot and killed David Pittman at Ennis, surrendered to the officers Tuesday morning. James had been hiding in the Trinity river bottom since the night of the crime. Monday night he beat his way to Ennis on a Midland train, went home to his mother from whence he phoned the officers he was ready to give up. He was brought to Waxahachie and lodged in jail.

One Family at West Was Hurled a Considerable Distance.

Waco, July 3.—Fully twenty houses were demolished by the storm at West Monday afternoon. Besides Mrs. Mary Allen, who was badly injured by a flying scatting, a child of Charles Adams had an arm broken. The Adams family was blown 100 feet, but only the child hurt. Many homes and trees were blown down. The storm's path was two blocks wide, and it came from the east. West was in total darkness Monday night. The wind followed a sultry day.

THE NEW VISIBLE

At Last a Perfect Visible Typewriter

The One Typewriter That Correctly Solves the Objections That Have Always Heretofore Been Made Against "Front Strike" Machines.

Visible writing has always been considered as desirable by practically all typewriter manufacturers, but the difficulties to be overcome in construction in order to secure durability have discouraged the very large adoption of these machines. The invention of the method of assembling the type bars as it is done in the Fox Visible has, however, made possible the use of a wide pivotal bearing in the type hanger, thus insuring the most perfect alignment at all times and a durability that is equal to that claimed for any "basket type" machine. In building this new model, we have all the advantage of the knowledge that we have gained in building and placing the regular Fox models on the market and we are able to avoid all those experiments found in new machines which are so expensive to the purchaser.

Here is a Short Description.

THE TYPE HANGER—The hanger has a pivot bearing 7-1/2 of an inch wide. This allows the use of a heavy type bar, providing an adjustable pivot bearing which takes up wear as it occurs, thereby giving a permanent alignment that is impossible to secure with a narrow bearing without adjustment, and avoiding the trouble caused where "forced alignment" is necessary. This is the feature that has heretofore been considered as being impossible to secure in a visible writing typewriter. It is found only in the Fox and places the Fox Visible in a class by itself.

TWO COLOR RIBBON—The ribbon movement on this machine is simply perfection. It reverses and oscillates automatically, requiring no attention from the operator from the time it is put on until worn out. When a two color ribbon is used, by simply touching a button on the keyboard the second color is secured instantly without raising the hand or even looking.

THE INTERCHANGEABLE CARRIAGE—The carriage is so constructed that it can be quickly removed and a carriage of different length substituted. One

Every feature on this machine has been tried out and demonstrated as successful on the Regular Models of the Fox. Unprejudiced experts have without hesitation pronounced the machine a marvel.

Ask your nearest typewriter dealer to show you this machine. If he cannot we will make it easy for you.

The regular models of the Fox are still the most perfect machines of their kind and their manufacture will be continued as before.

machine can be purchased with different sizes of carriages, thereby effecting a great saving over the ordinary method of buying a long carriage machine complete. The carriage is ball bearing and runs with a tension of only 1 lb.

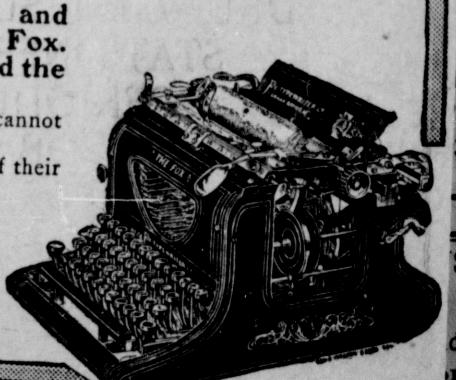

PERFECT VISIBLE WRITING—The entire line is visible all the time.

THE KEY TENSION—The force required on the part of the operator to print a letter is only 2 1/2 ounces. This is from 25 to 50 per cent. less than any other. It is a vital thing both from the operator's standpoint of less fatigue and the owner's of greater durability.

THE LINE LOCK—When the carriage reaches the end of a line, the keys lock and nothing more can be written until the release button is used or the carriage returned to begin a new line.

ALUMINUM KEY LEVERS—Key levers are made of aluminum. It is more expensive than steel or wood, but it is very much more desirable.

TABULATOR—The Fox ten stop decimal tabulator is attached when ordered, at slight additional expense. It is the only decimal tabulator in use on a visible typewriter.

BRYAN, TEXAS, JULY 4, 1906

Let everybody aid the directors in making the fair this fall a rousing success.

In traveling this summer the Bryan people should lose no opportunity to speak a good word for the town and the schools.

The cotton market declined a few points yesterday on account of the favorable crop reports. New Orleans market from 5 to 14 points down.

A bear attended services at a country colored church in Wharton county and there was something doing with the congregation on his unexpected appearance.

In 1902 only six passengers were killed on British railways, while during the same year 8588 persons met death in railroad accidents in the United States.

Felix Powell and Augusta Diggs are on trial at Edna for the murder of the Conditt family at that place last September. It will be remembered this is the same case in which Monk Gibson is being tried for.

The Thaw-White murder and scandal in New York promises to uncover much more moral degeneracy, and it is hoped that the metropolis will profit thereby in the matter of clearing up the social atmosphere.

Judge Bell has made and is still making a manly and open fight for the high office he is seeking. His campaign was pitched on statesmanlike lines, and he has only deviated from legitimate and proper paths when it was necessary to call down the glaring misrepresentations of some of his competitors. He has studiously refrained from mudslinging and all forms of personalities, and has appealed to people only as a patriot and a statesman. And Judge Bell has asked no favors. He has made his fight as a man should and would make it. There has been no stabs in the back, no undercuts, and no appeals to the passion and prejudices. The Bell campaign has been one of the cleanest ever witnessed in Texas, and that is the reason it is proving a winner.—Fort Worth Telegram.

During the twelve months ending June 30th, there were 1450 charters filed in the state department at Austin. The report shows an increase of fifty per cent over the previous year, which shows a great activity in the commercial line of Texas.

FOR FIRST TIME.

All Saloons in Both Kansas Cities Closed on Sunday.

Kansas City, July 2.—For the first time in their experience all saloons in both Kansas Cities were closed tight Sunday. On the Missouri side it was the usual Sunday closing that has been carried on for months by orders of Governor Folk. On the Kansas side, where the prohibition law has been openly violated for years, the closing was the result of Governor Hoch's campaign to stop the sale of liquor, not only on the Sabbath, but every other day in the week. Since the Sunday closing law has been in effect on the Missouri side thousands have gone to the Kansas side for relief, but that day none was in sight. The lid was not only on in Kansas, but was padlocked. In Kansas, in order to emphasize his earnestness in the matter, Assistant Attorney General Trickett had padlocks placed on the doors of all joints.

LIQUOR SPILLED.

Throngs Upon the Street Sang the Long Meter Doxology.

Canyon City, Colo., July 2.—City officials, assisted by a number of church people, made a raid Sunday on the Canyon City Labor club, where liquor selling is said to have been going on, arrested the proprietor after a hard fight and spilled the stock of liquor into the street. Throngs on their way to church witnessed the raid and, as the beer, whisky and wine filled the gutters, sang, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

This raid was the climax of the anti-liquor fight being started a little over a year ago, when the temperance element got hold of the council. The saloons quit business, but many alleged "clubs" started up.

Strike Threatened.

El Paso, July 2.—Orders have been issued at Phoenix, Ariz., to head three companies of the Arizona National guard in readiness to proceed to Monrouri and Clifton, Ariz., where a strike is threatened in the mines.

Twenty-Seven Missing.

Nagasaki, July 2.—The Japanese steamers Hinode and Nichi Yelr collided near Sasebo and twenty-seven members of the crew are missing.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

All persons are requested to take the usual precautions against mosquitos and malarial diseases by using oil in cisterns and disinfecting their premises in general. A general inspection will be made by the authorities in a few days and it is hoped the town will be found in thorough sanitary order.

LEGEND OF CASCADES

INDIAN TRADITION OF FALL OF GREAT NATURAL BRIDGE.

Terrible Battle Between Mount Hood and Mount Adams Brought Destruction to "Bridge of the Gods."

The cascades in the Columbia river near the Dalles are a very interesting subject for the geologist and scientist. At this point about 10,000,000 cubic feet of water pass each second of time during high water and about 4,000,000 cubic feet of water at low water stage in the river. The water rushes and dashes over great rocks and through crevices and forms many waterfalls and deep, swirling pools. From the topography of the adjacent country the scientist judges that at one time there was here either a wonderful waterfall or, as Indian legend has it, an immense natural bridge. Let us follow out the Indian tradition about the place, says Wilhelms Magazine.

Indian lore has it that at this point there was a natural bridge across the Columbia and that beneath this immense natural archway flowed the rolling river and that the redmen navigated this water way in their canoes. This bridge was covered with pines and firs and a trail passed over it leading from bank to bank. The name of this trail was in the Indian language "Temanawas," which means "bridge of the gods." As the Indians have no written language, this history has been handed down by word of mouth from one generation to another for hundreds and hundreds of years until the present day.

An old Indian who once lived upon the banks of the Columbia relates that when he was a very young boy his grandfather called him to a secluded spot one day and in a most impressive manner told him the legend of the cascades. Said this aged Indian:

"My grandfather's father said that when he was a little boy there was a bridge across the river one sleep from Klickitat (an Indian village near where the Dalles is now) and that he sat upon the rocks 200 feet above the present river and fished in still water—the fish there were plenty."

The Klickitat Indians have the story among the legends of their tribe that at one time there was a bridge across the Columbia. An aged Klickitat once said and maintained with all gravity: "My grandfather's mother paddled a canoe under that bridge; it was dark for a very long time; she had a little boy with her who was much frightened; this boy when he grew up often told of that great, long, dark, very dark way far under the ground."

Other Indians tell the story that at one time many moons ago the great mountains now called Mount Hood and Mount Adams made a terrible battle and fought desperately—so desperately that the earth shook and trembled—and in the fight that the mountains were set afire and a great lake which lay in the depression above the bridge was drained; that the bridge was torn down and the entire character of the country changed. This immense battle no doubt was an earthquake and the fire to the Indians' mind was volcanic action of these two mountains wherein vast quantities of molten lava were spewed out and destroyed the forests upon the bridge with its forest of trees was destroyed and the banks of the river caved in, which accounts for the many dead tree trunks which strew the river bed from the little town of Mosier, Ore., to the Cascade Locks, which, although submerged, still stand as it were like gravestones telling the tale of a dead and forgotten past.

The two mountains, which are the pride of the region, are of volcanic origin. The broken mountain range upon each side of the river shows plainly that such a condition could have and must have existed at one time. The detached rocks broken from the precipitous banks and the canyon sides upon each side of the river bear out this theory. The old water line marked plainly upon the rocky sides of the precipitous banks tell the story of water levels above that of the present day. A bridge across the Columbia of earth, rock and trees did at one time exist. The time of its existence, however, is about as possible of determination as the date of the garden of Eden. Very likely 5,000 or 6,000 years have elapsed since men crossed over upon that natural bridge and as many since it fell in ruins to make an impossible barrier for navigation, but it did surely exist and the locality of its existence is an interesting and delightful place to visit.

Evidently Thin.

"Does it, sah. Dat's our best stock soup, sah."
"Then it must be watered stock. I spilled some on the tablecloth and it didn't leave the slightest stain."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LONDON'S HUMOR AND FUN

People of All Classes Are Constantly Bubbling Over with Light Bits of Speech.

The Break of a Young Steer.

BY C. C. JOHNSTON.

Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.

Mention has been made of the gay and careless nature of the Parisian. Has anyone except a true-born Londoner ever observed the humor and fun which lie in great masses among the people of London? W. W. Jacobs in modern days has depicted some of this in special particulars. Dickens, above all writers, most faithfully portrayed many phases of it. Thackeray has dealt with it in a manner not likely to be repeated.

But all three authors do not collectively make up the mass of London humor. It is everywhere. It peeps out with drivers of public vehicles who use their horses as friends from whom to draw inspiration for their sallies of humor, and one wonders what will become of all this when the horseless vehicle is the universal mode of vehicular traction. Surely the man who turns a handle is not the same as the man who holds the reins and can not get out of electricity and petroleum what has been got out of the pulsations of horses.

It comes to us from the railway porters and servants who keep at bay the troublesome multitude by deftly turning into broad farce events which begin seriously. It comes, too, from hotel and restaurant waiters, who see enough of the grim humors of life to become an almost endless source of inspiration. But it is also apparent on the surface. Butcher boy and baker boy and shop boy are full of it. They carry their goods along in happy ignorance of the sport they give to those who can note the humorous in life. And the costermonger and itinerant dealer, to be met with almost everywhere, are special products of London who can not fail to attract.

One does not quite meet the counterparts of these people in Paris. Those who take their place there are not so distinctive and partake more of the characteristics of the average Parisian. They send out, therefore, to the observer only what the average Parisian sends out, and do not stand apart as types of what the city can do in the way of carrying on the humors of the time. Some day, perhaps, there will arise a greater humorist in London who will penetrate what London produces in this respect, and when this shall happen London will appear a happier and more genial place than is commonly supposed.

MARVEL OF ENGINEERING.

Great Smokestack at Butte, Montana, Is a Titan Among Tall Chimneys.

Out at Butte, Mont., where the great stamping mills and ore-concentrating works have turned the mountain city into titanic inferno of tall chimneys belching black and sulphurous fumes, stands one tremendous tower, the top of which is 350 feet above the ground, says the Mechanical World.

When its erection was planned the first idea was to build it of brick. That would have required a thickness of 12 or 16 feet of masonry at its base. But a construction engineer from Chicago was called into consultation. He proposed that the huge chimney be built of concrete and, with some misgivings, the plan was adopted.

He prepared a foundation six feet deep, 12x12, of concrete, with a number of steel reinforcing rods. Beginning at the ground level, he carried two thin concrete shells upward to 100 feet. The outer one is only nine inches in thickness, while, separated by four inches or space from this, is an inner shell five inches thick. At a height of 100 feet these two unite into a single seven-inch shell of concrete, which extends skyward until the vast height of 350 feet is reached.

This chimney, many feet higher than our modern city sky scrapers, is therefore composed of but 14 inches of concrete at the base and half that amount for the upper 250 feet. It is not of plain concrete, but is reinforced both horizontally and vertically with a number of small steel rods, which were held in place until the concrete had been deposited around them, making a reenforced concrete body superior in every way to both steel and brick masonry. There are in the United States scores of these wonderful chimneys.

LIKE INDIA'S SACRED BULL.

Mountain Sheep in Colorado Must Not Be Touched, Says the Game Law.

State Game and Fish Commissioner Jim Woodard declares that the mountain sheep of Colorado is in the same class as the sacred bull of India, says the Denver Republican. It must not be touched, says Woodard. If the animal is seen browsing upon the mountain-side the gun of the hunter must not be pointed in its direction.

The animal, therefore, may be called the "sacred sheep of Colorado." There are not many of them left, but under the protection of the law they are increasing every year. There is a band of them on the hills between Florence and Victor and Mr. Woodard has a photograph of a bunch grazing on a hillside a short distance from Florence.

A letter received in Mr. Woodard's office recently tells of the arrest and conviction of one Fred Klantzky for killing a mountain sheep. Klantzky was fined $300 and costs in the county court at Canon City. The costs amounted to $140 and if the accused man does not settle he will have a long term to serve in the county jail.

The Break of a Young Steer.

BY C. C. JOHNSTON.

Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.

minutes a spruce-looking young man spied him from across the street. He hurried over, as though he was afraid Uriah might get away before he reached him.

Up at the Forks the whereabouts of Uriah caused much anxiety for a week or two, until Jeff Blaine, the huckster, who had paid a visit to the city, brought back word that he had seen Uriah as a play-actor in a theater; that he looked just like he always did, and people were making a great fuss over him. It was conceded that Jeff had run across Uriah somewhere in town, but as for the rest—Jeff had been drinking again—until the Forks saw the newspaper which said:

"I ain't got no complaint 'cause you're poor, Uriah," the old man had said the evening before; "you're industrious, and would be just the kind of a feller to take hold o' my little place, but I'm 'fraid to risk you as a son-in-law. Somehow you don't strike me as bein' just human; you're too good. I don't s'pose you ever broke one of the commandments in your life. 'Tain't natural, 'tain't healthy for a young feller not to break loose and cut a caper once in awhile, in the pride of his youth, as the Bible says. I know you and Lucy think a heap o' each other, but I got a parent's anxiety that if you didn't leave her a young widder you'd some day cause her sorrier by sowlin' wild oats out o' season."

Uriah had taken his way home to the neighboring farm, where he worked, in sadness of soul. Even had he understood Sylvester's philosophy, he would have been at a loss how to put it into practice. Unconsciously, however, he had been influenced. He had been pondering the old man's words all day, and tonight, for the first time he felt an impatience with the tameness of his existence. It affected his usual gentleness. Letting down only the upper bars, he seized a club, and with some homely expletives foreign to his lips, coaxed the cattle into hurdling the gap.

As they were swallowed up in the dusk of the field, Uriah stood, pensively, gazing after them. Suddenly he had a sense of something rushing toward him out of the darkness. The next moment he was doing a somersault. A half-grown steer dashed by. Uriah was not hurt, but the incident seemed to awake something within him. Instead of anger he felt a wild sympathy with the impulse that had caused the steer to throw off the restraint of the pasture field. The beat of its hoofs, as it flew up the lane thrilled him. Uriah lay for a long time in deep thought. After awhile the steer, evidently happy and satisfied, returned to the gap of its own accord, and quietly permitted itself to be herded. Uriah replaced the bars and started for the house. His mind was made up.

Midnight found him well on toward the city. He had walked 15 miles. A haystack served him as a bed, and a pocketful of cakes supplied his breakfast, after which he caught a friendly farmer's wagon.

Uriah had never been in the city before. Its rushing life and strange sights both bewildered and intoxicated him. In his pocket was $40, his entire savings. To his mind this sum presented limitless possibilities. He was ready to part with the last penny of it in his mad determination to turn himself loose. The only problem with him now was how to begin.

If Uriah was unacquainted with the town, it might be said that the town was not so familiar with Uriah, or the pronounced type of rustic he represented, to rob him of novelty. An awkward, overgrown youth, of marked peculiarity of feature, Uriah in ordinary garb would have won more than passing notice. Uriah with his Sunday clothes on was a sensation. The garments were of archaic cut and pattern, and fitted him with painful brevity. A small boy's stiff hat rested on his bushy, uncultivated locks.

As Uriah stood upon the corner, in open-mouthed perplexity, it was easy to imagine the probable fate that awaited him and his $40. It would be like finding money. In the course of a few

Modern Heretic and His Duty to Self and People

By WILLIAM PHILLIPS HALL.
Millionaire Evangelist.

ANY men of many minds" agree that a great theological crisis is now on in the Christian church. The Crapsey heresy trial, the recent address of Bishop Burgess, of the Protestant Episcopal church, and the remarks of President William De Witt Hyde, of Bowdoin college, at the Union Theological Seminary alumni dinner, are all recent indications of theological ferment and unrest.

The immediate cause of it all is the introduction into the curriculum of many theological seminaries and similar institutions of religious instruction of the so-called science of evolutionary biblical criticism of the books of the Bible.

While the advocates of this scheme of biblical investigation claim for it an infallibility but little short of the infallibility of Divine Omnipotence, it is really an ingenious but very human hypothetical plan. Unlike the evolutionary fad theory, of which it was largely the outcome, it has encountered not only one but many "missing links" in the chain of proof which its advocates have attempted to forge to prove its infallible correctness. All of the strictly evangelical branches of the Christian church, constituting nearly all of that great religious body, are pledged both in ministry and membership to discountenance and oppose many of the teachings and logical conclusions of the so-called "new theology," which in turn is the child of the evolutionary criticism of the Bible.

Many theological educators and ministers who have apparently become fascinated by the seeming novelty of the "new teachings"—which, as a matter of fact, largely merely represent a renaissance of the peculiar beliefs and unbeliefs of the deists of the eighteenth century—in their new-born scholastic enthusiasm advocate those teachings on all possible occasions without regard to their previously assumed obligations to do otherwise. While certain ministers, theological professors, students and laymen hold to and actively support the "new theology," yet the great mass of evangelical church members and ministers remain loyal to the declared faith of the evangelical churches. There is, seemingly, but one honorable course for those who hold to the "new theological views" to pursue; namely, to publicly confess their change of theological views, resign their memberships and ministries, and organize new churches and seminaries where they may honorably hold to and present their views.

NEW USE OF THUMB MARKS

Business Men Employ Them to Prevent the Raising of Checks.

To meet the demand for protection against raising checks, a merchant of Plainfield, N. J., hit upon the idea of using the well known fact that no two human finger ends are alike.

After filling out a check he lightly prints his thumb end over the figures, says the Business Man's Magazine. An understanding with his bank makes it require this design on a check of his before it is cashed.

In accomplishing the impression Mr. Griffen uses a steel plate on which a light coating of ink has been deposited; but the writer has experimented in the employment of printers' roller composition and printers' ink. Using these, in a heavier pressure, the result gives a firm design which permits of no change whatever without quick detection.

Lucy recognized him when he reached the front gate, in spite of his stylish new clothes, and thought him splendid. Old Sylvester's greeting was scarcely less hearty.

"You sly rascal, I didn't think it was in you. No more o' your foolishness, now; git the weddin' over, so that we can start the fall plowin'."

The old man slapped him admiringly on the back. "I'll furnish the money for the license—spent every cent you had, I s'pose?" he added, with ill-concealed glee.

"No," said Uriah a little guiltily; "I still got that $40 I saved up."

England's Great Wheat Crop. The board of agriculture of England, in a return recently issued, states that the total production of wheat in Great Britain in 1905 amounted to 58,902,499 bushels, or over 22,000,000 bushels more than in 1904, and larger than in any previous year since 1899. The yield per acre was 32.78 bushels, which is two and one-quarter bushels above the mean of the previous ten years, and six bushels above the poor return of 1904.

New Eyeglasses. Eyeglasses slightly tinged with an orange yellow, are said by a French expert, Dr. Motaïs, to be peculiarly agreeable and soothing to feeble or oversensitive eyes. Patients who cannot use blue or smoked glasses see well with these.

Georgeous Plumage. In Japan special attention is paid to the breeding and care of fowls with a view to their plumage. It is not uncommon for chickens to be raised with tail feathers 12 or 15 feet in length.

BEST KID FOR CLOVES.

Comes from the Animal That Is Fed Exclusively on Goat's Milk.

"This is milk fed kid," said the leather merchant. "It is very soft and fine and pliable, isn't it?"

He smoothened the delicate white skin and went on:

"All first rate kid is milk fed. It comes to us from the French mountaineers. These men are superb goat herders. Their immense flocks supply the world's kid gloves.

The goat herds of France are careful to keep their kids on an exclusive milk diet. They pen the little animals, with their mothers, in rocky inclosures, where there is no grass. At that the kids often escape, often manage to eat solid food. For, with almost human perversity, kids that shouldn't be weaned wean themselves early, whereas calves that should be weaned cling like grim death to milk.

"One meal of grass will spoil a kid's skin, will rob it of its softness and pliability, will harden and coarsen and stiffen it. Hence, when you buy kid gloves, always choose the milk fed kind."

HIS REVENGE.

Scotland's Population.

From the report of the registrar general for Scotland it appears that the population in the middle of 1905 is estimated to have been 4,676,603. The number of births registered was 131,381; this is 1,189 fewer than in the previous year.

HEALTHIEST OF ALL.

Secretary Wilson Issues Statement About American Livestock.

Washington, July 3.—Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture has decided not to enter upon his annual vacation until he has completed the organization necessary to put into operation the new meat inspection law. He will give practically his entire time to the work for two months. The pure food law also will require attention, but he intends to leave this almost wholly to Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry.

By direction of the president, Secretary Wilson issued the following statement:

American Livestock are the healthiest in the world. The great ranges of the west produce herds of cattle in which the percentage of disease is remarkably small, and the Federal government is steadily reducing, by approved scientific methods this small percentage. The inspection of the animals before and at the time of slaughter has always been thorough.

It is true that the department of agriculture has heretofore lacked the power and the money to provide for an efficient supervision of sanitation and the methods of preparation of canned meat food products.

The legislation which has just become effective provides the department of agriculture with an adequate law and with ample money to carry it into effect. Supervision and inspection will be extended from the pasture to the package. The Federal stamp upon the can will be a guarantee not only of the healthfulness of the animal, but also that the product was prepared amid sanitary conditions, and that with the addition of no deleterious chemical or preservative, any meat food product bearing the government stamp will be fit for food.

With this law in operation, it may be accepted as a fact that for healthfulness and purity the prepared or canned product will compare favorably with the fresh meat of the United States, which is, and always has been, the finest in the world.

The new law is comprehensive, the means for its enforcement are ample, and its execution will be thorough.

People at home and abroad may use our meats in confidence.

MEAT INSPECTORS.

Examination For These Duties Will Be Held In This Month.

Washington, July 3.—To carry into effect the meat inspection law, recently enacted by congress, the civil service commission has announced an examination of inspectors to be held on the 21st inst. The entrance salary is $1,000 per annum.

The tragedy was prompted by anger. Brewer's wife left his home a few days ago, alleging that he was treating her badly. She went to her mother's home, where Brewer called Monday night and entreated her to return to him. He became angry when his wife refused to leave her mother's house and, drawing a revolver, began shooting at the women.
